THE TWO LOVERS.

BY GEORGE ELIOT.

Two lovers of a green spring—
They leaned soft cheeks together,
Mingled the dark and sunny hair,
And heard the winged thrushes sing.
A bird's song
O love's best prime!

Two wedded from the portal step;
The bells made happy carolings,
The air was soft as fainting wings,
White petals on the green grass.
O pure eyes!
O tender pride!

Two faces over a cradle bent;
Two hands clasped, the fingers were locked;
These pressed each other while they rocked;

Those watched a life that was but sent,
O hidden power!

Two parents by the evening fire;
The red light fell about their knees;

The red light shone on their knees;
But all the hours, the slow degrees,

Had gone and left that lonely pair,
O语音 fast!

O voice of love!

The red light shone upon the floor,
And made the space between them wide;

They drew their chairs up side by side,
Their pale checks joined, and said—“One more!”

Memories?
O past that is!

Sunday Reading.

Mrs. Van Cott is arithmetical. She lets her account book know what her revival meeting does. She claims she have “converted 1,735 souls.”—Liberal Christian.

John W. Jones, the most spirited or trenchant and cogent writer in the South, who were so, “I dare no more,” said he, “than to curse and swear.”

The Reformed Episcopal Church is already projecting missions. It has missionaries in several of the Territories, and is almost constantly sending out new men.

A “priests’ prayer union” has been formed in London for the purpose of raising for priests’ prayer meetings, the delivery of sermons and addresses to parents and the issue of books and tracts on parental duties.

The Catholic World claims that there are at least 350,000 girls in schools presided over by the Roman Catholic church in the United States, and that at least 60,000 of these are poor children, educated free of expense.

We think it is a great thing to have a small company of pilgrims visit Rome and the Pope. But 160,000 Mohammedan pilgrims have already visited Mecca this year. In the matter of religious zeal the Asiatics leave us Occidentals nowhere.

The church question in Venezuela is taking on the same aspect as in Italy, Switzerland, Germany, and Brazil. There is every appearance that so far as President Gral. Blanco is concerned Venezuela will terminate relations altogether with Vatican.

While New York city has 550,000 inhabitants and 470 places of worship, Berlin with a population of 800,000, has only sixty churches and chapels, yet for the most part cost less. The United States has 22,000 houses of worship—68,000 Protestant and 4,000 Roman Catholic, or 600 to a church.

Patrick Henry left in his will the following passage: “I have now disposed of all my property to my family; there is one thing more I will. I could give them, and that is the Christian religion. If they had that, and I had not given them one shilling, they would be rich; and if they had not that, and I had given them all the world, they would be poor.”

“I am rich enough,” says Pope to Swift, “to have a hundred pounds a year, a hundred pounds a year. I would not care to live on the earth without doing a little good. I will enjoy the pleasures of what I give by giving it alive. When I die,” adds the poet, “I should be ashamed to leave enough for a monument if there were a want of friends above the ground.”

Plus IX, though surpassing his predecessor in the size of his fortune, has not reached the following in age: Boniface VIII. (1294 to 1303); Paul III. (1534 to 1539); Clement X. (1670 to 1676); and Innocent XII. (1691 to 1700), all died from 60 to 70 years of age; to 1324, and Clement XI. (1730 to 1740), from 90 to 92; while Gregory IX., nephew of Innocent III, lived to the age of 100.

The Easter women who are burned alive with their deceased husbands often utter shrieks that would pierce the heart to the soul, and to procure a compassion that would endear the relatives of the perdition, the priests, and drums and cymbals, drown the terrific cries of their victims. These widows of India ascend the funeral pile with a fortitude that man could never display, and emulously yield up their bodies to the pyramids, which, if man had but called upon to endure, would never have been perpetrated.—McBancroft.

In St. Louis there are fifteen Baptist, three Christian, four Congregationalist, twelve Episcopal, one English Evangelical, one Free Church, one German Evangelical Lutheran, twelve German Lutherans, Hebrew, twelve Northern Methodist, ten Southern Methodist, one New Jerusalem, twenty-two Presbyterians, thirty-six Roman Catholic, two Unitarian, eleven Methodists, and one of the many of any of the above sets. Total 153 churches, and the total number of ministers engaged as pastors or assistant pastors of these churches is 208, inclusive of one Catholic archbishop and one bishop, one Episcopal archbishop and one bishop, one Episcopalian minister who spent several years in Canada, and knows by experience what hardships a Baptist minister has to undergo there.

The Baptists in Canada are trying to coax English ministers to come and teach them. But the inducements are not flattering. There are only six churches which pay a salary of $200, the other societies raising from $200 to $800 only for their pastor. The people of the United States are 22,000 houses of worship—68,000 Protestant and 4,000 Roman Catholic, or 600 to a church.

Before and after.—A female writer for one of the sentimental papers, speaking of affinities, observes that a woman now and then meets a man whom she can truthfully say: “On the barren shores of life, when you are in despair, he comes to you.”

It is not the man who is the true victim. These widows of India ascend the funeral pile with a fortitude that man could never display, and emulously yield up their bodies to the pyramids, which, if man had but called upon to endure, would never have been perpetrated.—McBancroft.

FARM AND GRANGE.

Roman Catholics in Wisconsin are leaving the granges, the wings of Mt. Washington having issued a protest against them.

Gen. Fitzhugh Lee, of Virginia, favors the apparent object of the Grangers, but objects to their secrecy and to the introduction of women into its membership.

The Kansas farmer objects to the grange taking so much money out of the State, and shows that if the dispensation fee were $5 instead of $15 the sum of $14,000 would have been retained in Kansas.

The South is rivaling the North and the number and strength of her granges, wherever located, are brethren. They don’t ask each other where a decade ago they were in the gray ranks. They may want to know where they are American sons, and working for the same handable objects.

A California patron says that the results of the organization in his neighborhood:

“The discussion of questions of practical interest, and the educational feature of our grange is having a tendency to develop not only a better manner of expressing ourselfs, but a greater willingness to make the effort. Great improvements have already been observed in the little practice we have had thus far.
